

GOLD duty & responsibility

A natural gold has a strong desire to have organization and structure in everything they do. Their core need is to be responsible. They enjoy being part of social groups and often pride themselves on working to make that group a better place to be. They take an immense amount of pride in their work and expect everyone to pull their own weight.

Their work and personal lives need to be organized. The order and structure needs to be put into place before the project gets started. To start a project and then have to scrap it due to carelessness in planning would be extremely painful to a natural gold.

When it comes to traditions, people with a natural gold temperament are the ones that will keep those traditions alive from year to year. They feel the past is extremely important and a very large part of who they are today.

BLUE relationships

A natural blue is someone who is empathetic and warm. They experience life and become one with it. A natural blue will seek out harmony and peace. They will trust their intuition. They are aware of others' emotions and can connect with people easily, both verbally and nonverbally.

A natural blue seeks to make a positive difference in the lives of others and in the world. This makes a natural blue very cause oriented. They are passionate individuals who often make personal sacrifices to benefit others in need. Knowing someone is in need and they cannot help is quite overwhelming for a natural blue.

A natural blue will work best in an environment with little conflict and tension. Working together on a project and supporting their team brings them great joy.

GREEN knowledge & information

A natural green is someone who can be described as very curious. Their core need is intellectual competency. They are visionaries and have the ability to see the big picture when planning. They want to know the why of things and have a tendency to question everything. This questioning is only to better understand. They are motivated by their own standards not by the standards placed on them by others.

A natural green loves learning for the sake of learning and will move on to the next challenge once a problem has been solved. They view everything as a lesson and will continue to search for improvement.

ORANGE freedom

A natural orange is someone that can be described as fun loving, charismatic, carefree, and adventurous. This person's core need is freedom. They typically have a need to be free from barriers that they would consider hold them back. They enjoy being able to move freely within their work and personal environments. This allows them to use their creative minds to produce the best outcome in most situations

A natural orange can be very unconventional in their methods, but generally very productive in their outcomes.

They enjoy trying new things and coming up with new ideas for any situation. They often will be the first to question: "Why have we always done it that way?" They look for new opportunities to make their world a better place, both for themselves and others around them.
